About Me

I am a student at the Lhokseumawe State Polytechnic, majoring in Information Technology and Computers, with a focus on Informatics Engineering. I am currently learning the fundamentals of programming, software development, and computer networks. I have a strong interest in the field of technology and am eager to continue building my skills through coursework, small projects, and self-directed learning.

As an early-stage student, I am open to new experiences and committed to continuous improvement. I am enthusiastic about participating in activities that can enhance both my technical abilities and personal development, whether in academic settings or beyond.
